Rivermark Receives 2009 Service to Beaverton Award

BEAVERTON, OR – On May 13, 2009, Beaverton Mayor Denny Doyle announced the recipients of the 2009 Service to Beaverton Awards. The City of Beaverton and the Beaverton Area Chamber of Commerce selected Rivermark Community Credit Union for the 2009 Business Award for their community involvement efforts.

Over the past three years, Rivermark has helped raise over $135,000 for Doernbecher Children's Hospital, more than $17,000 for Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF), over $10,000 in cash and school supplies for School House Supplies and over $36,000 to the North Clackamas Parks and Recreation District through employee initiated fundraising and sponsorships.

Scott Burgess, Rivermark's President/CEO accepted the award at a reception and dinner at the Beaverton Library. "We were honored to receive this award and truly appreciate the city and chamber for this important recognition. Rivermark has been described as a treasured community partner and a leading fundraising organization. Our employees deserve much of the credit and are doing great things in our community," said Burgess.

During the past year, Rivermark has also supported other key organizations in the community, including the Tualatin Hills Park and Recreation District, Hawthorne Business Association, Oregon Food Bank, SMART, Clackamas County Children's Center and the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

As of April 30, 2009, Rivermark Community Credit Union has $438 million in assets, 47,000 members and over 160 employees. Its membership is open to anyone who lives or works in Multnomah, Clackamas, Washington, Yamhill, Marion, and Polk counties.
